ROGER BAILEY ENGAGED TO WED HELEN MORTON

Denied That Virginia Horseman's Brother Has Won Chicago

Close friends of Roger Bailey, a young Virginia horseman well known in Washington, announced today that he is engaged to marry Miss Helen Morton of Chicago, daughter of Mark Morton, a wealthy resident of that city. Miss Morton is a place of the late Paul Morton. ton is a niece of the late Paul Morton, former Secretary of the Navy, and a granddaughter of Julius Sterling Morton nce Secretary of Agriculture.

Reports last night and today in Wash-ington were to the effect that Miss Morton had married or was about to wed Clay Bailey, a brother of Roger Bailey. Roger Bailey is in Washington at present, and has been for the past eight weeks a patient at the private sanitarium William Gerry Morgan, 1417 Rhode Island avenue. He said today that he would prefer to leave to Miss Guest Near Delaplane, Va.

Miss Morton is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Frank Neer, at Delaplane, Va., near which Roger Bailey and his brother, Clay Bailey, have a farm on which have been bred many well known Virginia hunters. She left well known Virginia hunters. She left Chicago Wednesday and spent a day in Washington at the Shoreham Hotel, leaving here yesterday for Virginia, to inspect Crestone, the old Blair Johnson stock farm, containing about 100 acres, two and a half miles from Warrenton, Va., which she recently purchased.

"I noticed the reports in the morning papers that Miss Morton and my brother Clay are to be married or have been married." Mr. Balley said today to a reporter for The Star, "but I have the best of reasons for knowing that there is not a word of truth in them. I have known Miss Morton for two or three years. It happened that my brother Clay went to Chicago recently to see Miss Morton about two horses she purchased from our farm during the recent Washington horse show, and he returned to this section of the country about the same time she came here, although he did not escort her. I suppose this gave rise to the reports of their engagement.

Purchases Two Horses.

"Miss Morton purchased the two horse n our string known as 'Cocktail' and Mint Julep,' brother to whom, 'High Ball.' we sold to Edward B. McLean at last year's horse show when he started his string of hunters. "I dare say the reports that Miss Mor ton's parents are in disagreement with her, and are trying to prevent some alleged or supposed elopement, arise from the fact that they do not think that the farm she recently purchased in Fauquier county is a suitable one for her. She has plane, to see what to do about this farm. She is a farmer, being a graduate of an Illinois agricultural college, and has taken a deep interest in such work, as well as in horses. There is no truth in the report that Miss Morton left Chicago to visit a girl friend in Elberon, N. J. She has no intention of going there, so far as I know."

Miss Morton was a prominent figure at this year's Washington horse show, and rode Mr. Balley's horses in several of the jumping events, as well as one of the string belonging to Edward B. McLean. plane, to see what to do about this farm

CHILDREN ENTERTAIN TO AID PLAYGROUNDS

Eaton School Pupils Present "Ye Deestrict Skule of Blueberry Corners.

Large Audience Greets the Perform ers in Assembly Hall of Technical High School.

A large audience of parents, friends and just plain lovers of children filled the assembly hall at McKinley Technical High School last night to witness a performance of "Ye Deestrict Skule at Blueberry Corners," given by the children of the John Eaton School, Cleveland Park, for the benefit of the playground fund.

Everybody knows the story of the "Deestrict School"-what a terribly bac chool it was to start with, and how after the rejection of numerous aplicants, the flery-haired Hezeklah Pendergrass is chosen master of its des-tinies, and how he finally brings order out of chaos until in the final scene that ends this comedy the school becomes quite a model for real school teachers Delights the Audience.

All of this was shown last night, to the immense delight of the audience, and the kids seemed to enjoy it as much as their parents and friends. It is hardly fair to mention any of the hardly fair to mention any of the young performers specially, but since there was a regular reporter present, just as if it had been a big show, it must be done. Wherefore, little Miss Marguerite Fuller, as "Samantha Piper," the giggling girl, is named. She hit just the psychological moments for her giggles, and it is safe to say that if she times her smiles as well through life as she did last night she will never smile amiss or miss a smile. It was one of those three-cornered smiles, too—mouth and two eyes, you know.

The thid act was a sort of cabaret affair. It portrayed the last day of school, in which the now model class sang, recited and otherwise performed to perfection. Of all the offerings the "Rock-a-By" song given by the "third reader" won the most applause. Helen Latterner took the solo part in a way that argues well for her future as a singer, and Frances Coburn was "rock-a-bye lady." The others who responded to an encore with these two were Elizabeth Bryant, Elizabeth Hastings, Evelyn Preble, Martha Livingston, Sarah De Pue, Marian Affieck, Eleanor Pheleps, Ethel Sorrell and Catherine Spicer. young performers specially, but since

The role of Hezekiah Pendergrass was played by Harvey Gerry in a capable manner. As for the rest of them, everybody sang, and those who didn't sing re cited, and those who didn't recite jus cited, and those who didn't recite just plain "spoke," and those who didn't speak managed to get into the limelight some way or other-only there wasn't any limelight, it was just ordinary electric—so the only way to do is to mention the whole crowd.

Those who appeared as teachers, school committee and grammar pupils included William Deegan, Gilbert Wilkinson, Charles De Pue, Doris Lynham, Marjorie Gerry, Dorothy Hogan, Drucilla Hallam, Rose Rockwell, Margaret Woolard, Marguerite Fuller, Emily Dowell, Marjorie Preble, Elizabeth Sypher, Grace Nelson, Louise Cownes, Mary Fitzgerald, Atherton Hastings, Robert Nelson, Paul Heiss, Wallace Fuller, William Domer, Bayard Cunningham, Jonathan Danlels, Alfred Bisset and Bryant Grove.

In Memoriam.

Twenty-three long years and still I miss her;
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That within my heart is sealed.
BY HER LONELY DAUGHTER, ADDIE SMALLWOOD.

DAVIS. In sad but loving memory of my dear husband, SOLOMON DAVIS, who passed away three years ago today, May 23, 1911.

I often sit and think of you When I am all alone.
For memory is the only friend That grief can call its own.
BY HIS LOVING WIFE, ELIZA A. DAVIS.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low;
Thou no more wilt join our number;
Thou no more our song wilt know.
HIS BELOVED SISTER, LUCRETIA
SCOTT. GLEASON. In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, SARAH M. GLEASON, who departed this life ten years ago today, May 23, 1904.

Dear is the grave where our loved one is laid; Sweet is the memory that never shall fade. Roses may wither, leaves fade and die, Though others forget you, never shall I. BY HER LOVING DAUGHTER, SARAH B. KING.
